Bland Says That One Of the Bills Now in The Committees's Hands Will Be Recommended To Congress-Many Want the Bank Tax Bill Repealed.

WASHINGTON, April 6-[Special]cates of the repeal of the tax on state bank circulation are preparing to make an indirect movement for carrying their point in the hose. The Brawley bill, authorizing the suspension of the tax on circulating notes issued by state banks under pressure of the late financial crisis, will soon be brought before the house, the banking and currency committee being practically unanimous in its favor. As soon as it gets under way toward passage Mr. Cox of Tennessee will try to attach to it an amendment which will make its provisions applicable to all state banks and for an indefinite period. This will amount simply to a repeal of the tax. The friends of the amendment believe that they are strong enough to carry their point. Its enemies fear that the amendment, if it carries, will kill the bill on the final yesterday Mr. Hill (N. Y.) gave notice that at 2 o'clock next Monday he would submit a few remarks on the pending tariff bill. The following resolution was introduced by Mr. George of Mississippi:

Senator George Introduces a Peculiar Resolution—Thistle Bill Discussed.

"Resolved, That in view of the present depressed financial condition of the people, the low-price of agricultural and other products, the indebtedjudiciary be directed to prepare a bill commission to examine and report held in the Grand Pacific hotel. In atto reduce by 20 per cent all official incomes not protected by the statutes of the United States."

The resolution was referred in accordance with its terms.

At the request of Senator Hansbrough (N. D.) the senate took up the bill appropriating $1,000,000 for the destruction of the Russian thistle. At 2 o'clock p. m. the tariff bill was laid before the senate as the unfinished business, and the Russian thistle bill went over. Mr. Peffer of Kansas was recognized, but Mr. Call asked the senator to yield for a motion to go into executive session, which Mr. Peffer agreed to do on condition that should be entitled to the floor when the senate resumed its open session. Mr. Harris objected and demanded the yeas and nays, and the motion prevailed-31 to 19, and the senate went into executive sestion, which lasted until 5:10 p. m., when the senate ad-

ENGLISH BILL INADEQUATE.

Loophole Which Will Allow Canadian Poachers to Escape Penalties.

WASHINGTON, April 6.-The English bill to give effect to the Paris agreement on the Behring seal fisheries does not give entire satisfaction at the capitol. Senator Davis of the committee on foreign relations, says that the bill is inadequate and does not go as far as does the bill which passed the senate yesterday looking to the prevention of seal poaching. He points out that the English bill provides a penalty of £500 forfeiture for an offense against the treaty stipulations, which is the outside limit. "It may," he says, "be made as low as £10." He takes special exception to the clause providing that the act shall not be enforced against any vessel which may have sailed previous to the publication

"The fact is," said the senator, "that the Pacific is covered with Canadian sealing vessels which it will be found have sailed in time to evade the provisions of the treaty, and the effect of the legislation will be to give the Canadian sealers another year to devastate the herd."

Senator Davis said the inadequacy of the English legislation could have no influence upon this country, as it is our duty to proceed in our own way to execute the treaty.

LONDON, April 6. - During the debate in parliament on the passage of the Behring sea bill Sir Richard Webster said that apart from the seal question the treaty marked a distinct advance in the settlement of international disputes. When Sir Richard announced the passage of the American bill the house cheered loudly. The bill passed.

TO KEEP HIS PLACE.

In Fact He Has Been Quite Active In His Own Behalf and in Addition They Say That His Head Steerer Is Not a Congregationalist-How the War Rages.

According to advices from Milton, Rev. Richard Miller, the former Janesville man who is now pastor of the Congregational church at that place, does not intend to relinquish his place without a struggle. Miltonites charge through the Telephone that despite the fact that all the trustees, with one exception, both deacons all the officers and teachers of the Sunday school, with one or two exceptions, nearly all the officers and nine-tenths of the members of the Christian Endeavor society who are members of the church decidedly favored accepting his resignation, aa attempt is being made to force Rev. Miller onto the church for another year, in which move Miller himself is quite active. They also charge that a person who is not a member of the church, and does not believe in the creed of the church, has been head steerer for Rev. Miller, and the end is yet beyond the horizon.

A recent discovery is that headache dizziness, dullness, confusion of the mind, etc., are due to derangement of the nerve centers which supply the brain with nerve force: that indigestion, dyspepsia, neuralgia, wind in stomach, etc., arise from the derangement of the nerve centers supplying these organs with nerve fluid or force. This is likewise true of many diseases of the heart and lungs. The nerve system is like a telegraph system, as will be seen by the accompanying cut. The little white lines are the nerves which convey the nerve force from the nerve centers to every part of the every part of the body, just as the electric current is conveyed along the telegraph wires to ever y station, large or small. Ordinary physicians fail to regard this fact; instead of treat-ing the nerve centers for the cause of the disorders arising therefrom they treat the part affected. Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., the highly celebrated specialist and specialist and student of nervous diseases, and author of many noted treatises on the latter subject, long since realized the truth of the first statement, and his Restorative Nervine is prepared on that principle. Its success in curing all diseases arising from derangement of the nervous system is wonderful, as the thousands of unsolicited testimonials in possession of the company manufacturing the remedy amply prove.

When the Brazilian rebellion began last September, the insurgents were led by Admiral Mello, who was minister of marine under President Peixoto. Admiral Saldanha da Gama was in command of two government forts, but although he was not in sympathy with Peixoto he would not revolt unless the republic were overthrown for the purpose of re-establishing a monarchy. Finally Mello consented to the Da Gama scheme to re-establish a monarchy in order to secure Da Gama's support. Mello also retired as leader in Da Gama's favor. Da Gama then joined the insurgents, taking about all of the government's remaining warships with him.

BIG SALE OF SHAW PIANOS Instrument Like The Gazette Prize Are in Demand Everywhere.

Janesville is a fair sample of other towns throughout the country. They all want Shaw pianos. In most towns, however, they have to pay $350 to $500 for the different grades. Here The Gazette gives away the finest piano turned out. Secretary H L. Raymore of the Shaw company, through whom the piano was bought has just reached Erie after nine weeks in the west. In that time he sold 154 pianos. He visited Texas, Minnesota, Iowa, Illinois, Kansas, Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois aud Wisconsin and the largest order he placed in any city of Janesville's size was right here, where S. C. Burnham & Co. bought enough Shaw's to fill their store. He found Shaw's in demand everywhere, but hurried The Gazette piano thorough and expects to have it here next week.

"What has Milton got against the district attorney?" was asked of a Milton resident this morning.

"Oh, Wheeler is all right. Nobody has any fault to find-in fact they know that he has done all his power to prevent law-breaking in the town. He refused to prosecute one or two cases that came to him without sufficient evidence and I suppose that made Goodrich hot."

WHEELOCK TOUCHED BY FIRE. Flames Enter His Store Through a Loose

George H. Wheelock suffered a loss of $450 by fire in South Bend last Monday. And yet, when one flames reached out through a loose fitting cap that covered a chimney hole in the Wheelock building. The wall paper caught fire and in turn communicated it to an immense stock of dolls. The fire fiend did not deal leniently with those frail things an their beauty was ruthlessly destroyed by heat, flames and water. Had the firemen thrown water Mr. Wheelock says his loss would have been thousands where it now is hundreds. His insurance was ample.

EAUN FUH HEHSELF IN THE PIANO VOTE.

NEW RULE AROUSES ADDED INTEREST.

Bower City Girls Who Covet the Shaw Piano Which the Gazette Offers Are Encouraged By The Amended Conditions-Societies Cannot Enter the Contest.

Renewed interest has been shown in the piano contest since the ruling was made that no candidate could enter as representative of an association, lodge or society.

Besides the Y. M. C. A. two local secret societies had planned to make a campaign for the instrument. Such a contest would have done much to advertise The Gazette, but it was held to conflict with the idea on which the offer was based. The plan was suggested as furnishing a way for some young lady dependent upon her own resources to secure a fine instrument free. This plan will be strictly adhered to. The result must hinge upon the energy and popularity of individual contestants.

All who are interested in the canvass are urged to examine the Shaw pianos on exhibition at S. C. Burnham & Co's. The prize piano is expected in a few days.

"As fine an instrument as Janesville ever saw."

That's what Burnham & Co., say and they know Shaw pianos from pedal to music rack.

From now until the contest closes a coupon will be printed in each issue of the Gazette.

1. Any one, anywhere in any state is entitled to vote as often as they buy a copy of The Janesville Gazette containing the above ballot.

2. Cut the ballot out (trimming on the dotted lines) Write in the name of your candidate and enclose same in an envelope addressed to Bailot Editor, Gazette, Janesville, Wis.

HOW TO CHOOSE A HUSBAND Dr. E. C. Ellis Will Tell Girls How to Do It Tonight.

A good sized audience was in attendance at Lappins Hall last night, and the entertainment given by the Dr. McChesney Medicine Co. was heartily appreciated. The comedy company opened and closed the program with laughable farces interpersed with chosen specialty character work. The lecture was given by Dr. E. C. Ellis of Chicago. Dr. Ellis was for many years manager of the Wizard Oil companies and for two years was scientific lecturer for the J. C. Ayer Co., of Lowell, Mass., speaking in all the large cities of this country and traveling extensively abroad. He has patent medicine business and as a lecturer is very intertaining and instructive. The doctor was called to Janesville on other business and being an old acquaintance of Dr. Mc-Chesney he consented to speak for his company last night and tonight. This evening he will tell the young ladies of Janesville how to secure a husband and make no mistake. The house should be packed to hear him, as the lecture will be a rare treat. The comedy company will give an entire change of programme and the entertainment throughout will be enjoya-

TON EXPIRES IN HIS CHAIR.

"I propose taking out the old Found Lifeless By His Family-He Was One of the Best Known Sev enth-Day Baptist Divines in the West-Mrs. L. T. Rogers Also Stricken Without Warning.

> Rev. Dr. Wardner, of Milton Junetion, died very suddenly this morning, sinking back lifeless as he sat in his chair. Dr. Wardner preached in Milton Junction for eight years, but for the last two years has held services in Albion. He was considered one of the ablest men in the Seventh Day Baptist church in this part of the country. For years he was a Seventh Day Baptist missionary in China and later in Scotland, filling both charges with great success.

Mrs. L. T. Rogers of Milton Junction, fell dead Wednesday night while walking toward her bed room. She had been in poor health for some time but was able to be about the house. Her husband is very low today and nobody is allowed to see him. Mrs. Rogers' funeral will be held at 10.30 on Sunday at the Seventh Day Baptist church in Milton Junction.

A PORTRAIT.

You sannot trace the likeness now, old fellows I should have had the grace To die while I looked that way and not ruin My youthful seraph's face!

It looks as if I meant to set forth straightway To seek the holy grail. Perhaps it did. I only found o'er all things

The serpent's deadly trail. It does seem out of place among the portraits Of frail, fair women here.

A halo'd make a fine saint's picture of it? Ah, now, my boy, you jeer!

You're thinking in your heart how many halos Would make a saint of me. Confess, you cannot force yourself to grasp it That I was ever he.

Well, yes, a skull and crossbones would be Compared with that boy's face.

It's the Egyptian's death's head at the revels We have up in this place.

I could have given them points, those old Egyptians.

I'm sure a man's dead soul Is eerier to have around at banquets Beside the flowing bowl

Than any grinning skull they ever put there! Confound his living eyes!
Drink to him, Jack! We'll give him that much

For all their shocked surprise.

IT WAS A DREAM.

Mrs. Warrenton sat in her little blue and white parlor in a beruffled white muslin, her blond hair in a classic knot, her blue eyes filled with well bred ennui and her feet in coquettish blue and white canvas slippers idly prodding the lazy old Maltese tabby lying just out of range of the rocker.

Mrs. Warrenton sighed deeply and looked at her guest sideways.

to provoke a saint!" she broke out, with est look or word was to me. sudden petulance.

"If you were anything but the great dull boy that you are," continued his hostess aggrievedly, "you would see that I am dying of stagnation. You're the only interesting person I know, and now you come here and talk about the hot weather and look out of the window a new idea when I'm fairly verging on so I have asked a nice little girl to marintellectual starvation. Do something, say something or go home!"

"The weather is too warm for much mental energy, but I think if you fanned me for five minutes I might evolve a thought. I'd go home only it's shut up for the summer, and I'm sick of the club, and you are the only available amusement."

sed herself of a large and began fanning the thinker.

"You're sure you're thinking? Don't dare to go to sleep!" she exclaimed as the brows unknitted into peaceful se renity. "Time's up!"

Mr. Vinton unclosed his eyes and sat bolt upright.

"You look," said he irrelevantly, "like a Dresden china shepherdess in all those white ruffles and pink ribbon. Put on the big hat with pink roses, and you can play Phyllis."

'Is that all you've thought out?" "No," continued Bob radiantly. "I've thought further. You play Phyllis, and I'll be Strephon, and we'll go to Arcadia."

"Suppose, Bob, you should tip me

"Strephon, remember, Strephon!" prompted Bob as he paddled out slowly into the stream in the red glow of the "Well, Strephon, then!" and Mrs. Warrenton dabbled her finger tips in the water and forgot to repeat her ques-"I didn't know the Charles was so beautiful. What's all that green bank and, bridges and shady nookery up there?"

"Arcadia," said Bob sententiously. Mrs. Warrenton leaned back, nestled her pretty head against the shawls and looked picturesque. Mr. Vinton paddled industriously and gazed straight ahead toward his destina-

"You look ever so handsome in your shirt sleeves. I always like men better in their shirt sleeves-they're so much more picturesque. Why don't you paint your next hero in shirt sleeves, paddling a canoe with a pretty girl-that's I, of course," looking sentiment at him. "Look sentiment at me, Phyllis, and

I will," said Bob lightly. "All right, Strephon, but what shall we talk about?"

"Do you remember, Phyllis, the afternoon I taught you to skate out on the marshes? And going home in the early dark winter afternoon you slipped on the ice and hurt your ankle and criedyou were only a girl of 12 then-what a pretty girl, though !- and I put my arm around you and helped you home and kissed you a sweetheart kiss in the basement vestibule. That was a good many years ago, Phyllis."

"You were a nice boy, Strephon, but you were always bold," said Mrs. Warrenton. And then she added, with a touch of coquetry, "Would you believe it, I've the valentine you sent me-the one in a box with pink roses and Cupid?"

"I used to think you'd settle down to marrying me when you tired of flirting with Jack Warrenton. That's why l didn't shoot him before he ever married you, Nell''-

"Phyllis, Phyllis," she interrupted smiling. But he did not smile.

"Phyllis, I mean—but my going off to Rome that summer was a fit of pique. You said you didn't care, and when I came back you were married, and I'm sure I've acted like an angel ever since. I wonder if you ever did care?"

"I wonder!" murmured Mrs. Warrenton dreamily. "And now," she contin-ned, "you're going to marry that nice little girl of yours down at Newport and be a steadygoing Benedict and never any more spend afternoons in Arcadiswith Phyllis."

"Fact!" returned Bob a little bitterly, and as a streak of dying sunlight struck across his face through the branches he seized the paddle viciously and paddled into a little inlet overhung with shade.

Mrs. Warrenton leaned over and laid one hand timidly on the brown muscular one still grasping the paddle. "People are never cross in Arcadia," she murmured. "I wish you'd be in earnest," he broke out passionately, "and not treat her courtesy and savoir faire. me as if I were a boy. You're too confoundedly cold blooded. No-wellthat doesn't sound pretty-but I mean make believe you're human. You've al- nary parlor car. There was but one ways kept me at arm's length-just far other occupant, a somewhat stout enough so you could pull at my heartstrings when it amused you"-he broke off suddenly-"I'm a brute."

"No, Strephon, you're a true hearted, one day and repenting the next," said Mrs. Warrenton gently.

"As it is, Phyllis, why don't you offer to be a sister to me?" he suggested whimsically, smiling. "Would you mind if I talked to you about myself a little? Or maybe you won't care to hear. But this is the last time we'll be in Arcadia together, and though it will do no good I wanted you to understand.

"If I'd had a mother, maybe I'd be a better man. I don't think you ever knew how much you have done for me, boy and man. I loved you when you were a slip of a girl in short dresses and dumb, immovable figure and retreated braids, and I said to myself: 'She is good and pure. I will try to deserve her, and then I will win her.

"But I didn't win you. That was a hard time with me. I was a little reckless afterward, and I drifted into the fast set for a time, but I had my art, and that kept me from forgetting myself entirely.

"I have come regularly to you to be teased and smiled at, and you have "Good gracious, Bob, you are enough | never seemed to realize what your light-

"I have been kept from the follies and vices that have tempted me chiefly by the thought, 'I will not deserve to lose her respect.'

She does not want my love particularly, but my income and position, and her family and my family think it a good match. It is an experiment, and I—I am the most unhappy of men."

There was a long silence when he had finished speaking—a monotonous silence punctuated with the regular plash of his paddle and echoes of laughter and woman who not alone understood their Mrs. Warrenton arose majestically, oar strokes from the rowers abroad on sufferings but whose heart was full of

But I'm a woman of the world, and my heart is hard maybe, and I'm frivolous maybe, and I flirted with you to pass the time maybe-but, Strephon, you are a man of the world, too, and I never thought you had a heart.'

The miles of water were swept back slowly by the paddle. The little bark swept on with the tide; the boathouse was in view in the shadows.

Suddenly he put down the paddle. He leaned forward and groped for her hands with his, and as he clasped them the trembling fingers closed on his with an impulse of strength seeking.

Bending closely, he saw her face. Her eyes were wet with tears. "Forgive me," he pleaded hoarsely;

One winter day she started on the train for Philadelphia, taking her seat in what she supposed an ordiman, who sat with his back to her. Presently he lighted a cigar and began to smoke. The lady coughed and moved uneasily, but her hints hot headed boy, flying off on a tangent had no effect. She said at last tartly:

"You probably are a foreigner, sir, and do not know that there is a smoking car attached to the train. Smoking is not permitted here."

The man without reply threw his cigar out of the window.

A few minutes later the conductor entered and stared at her in dismay. "How did you come here, madam?" he inquired.

"Why, where am I?"

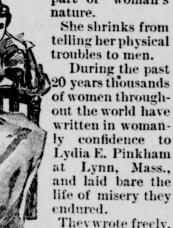

"In General Grant's private car." The mortified lady's usual tact failed here. She looked at the without a word.

EX-KING MIKE KELLY IN A MINOR LEAGUE

WAS THE CREATEST BALL PLAYER OF THEM ALL.

Been Relegated to League in Pennsylvania—He is Satisfied with his Lot-May Make

HE GREATEST ball player that ever lived is out of the National league. This man who, for many years, was a popular idol, for whom Boston paid Chicago $10,000, in addition to a similar sum for pitcher

John Clarkson, the receiving end of the greatest ball battery that ever existed, for whom his Boston admirers purchased a house and lot, for whose services the National league and Brotherhood fought so bitterly and who last year was alternately the pride and the curse of the New York club, is finally considered such a back number that no National league club desires his services, and he has been relegated to a minor league.

Nevertheless, ex-King Kelly is satisfied with his new position, which, properly handled, may net him a larger income than he could receive as a mere player, even in the big league, to say nothing of the honor of posing as a magnate and club owner.

If Kelly is in earnest, Al Johnson has made a wise move in securing him to take charge of the Allentown team. As a drawing card he is a wonder and should turn many a dollar into the coffers of the Johnson syndicate. Perhaps with this new responsibility on his shoulders the "king" will turn over a new leaf and will put his traducers to the blush. It will be many a long day before Kelly's equal, everything considered, is again seen on a National league diamond. May his term of service with the Allentown club be one of unqualified success is the hope of his many well-wishers.

with the same satisfaction as his at the New York Berkeley lyceumfriends. He said the other day that he which has produced several actresses looked upon his engagement with the of note-and, while there, she at-Allentown team as the best thing he had struck in his whole career, because it gave him complete charge, and the chance to make plenty of money. He said he would cover first base and expected to play better ball than he had ever done before. Kelly is to be the sole proprietor of the club, and all profits, if any are made, will go to him. The ball park in Allentown lies midway between that city and the three Bethlehems, and these towns have a combined population of 60,000, and are connected with the grounds by an electric railway. Besides, Kelly is acmowledged to be a good drawing card, which will swell the attendance in the ities of the Pennsylvania State League in which Allentown plays.

Kelly reached Allentown the other lay, and his advent has put the baseball cranks in a happy mood. He had been expected for several days, and his failure to come led some to suspect that the deal for the ex-ten thousand dollar beauty had fallen through. Kelly looked well, and said he expected to be in excellent condition when the season opened.

Since the announcement was made that Kelly was to manage the club, etters had been pouring in, and when Mike arrived, he found several hundred applicants for positions on the team awaiting him. Among them are a number of old National league players, and from the assortment he can select a team that will be well-nigh nvincible in the State league.

Kelly says he has nearly his full comlement of players, but is not disposed o announce them. They are men of eputation, and not a "stiff" among them. He proposes to put the grounds in fine shape and to play ball as it has never been played here. J. H. Q.

TRUE TO HER ART.

ennie Goidthwaite Has Distinguished

Herself in "A Lady of Venice." The most agreeable part of the first erformance in New York of "A Lady f Venice" was the dramatic acting, in small role, by the subject of this rief sketch. Little though her opportunity was. Miss Goldthwaite man ged to distinguish herself by the ruth of her acting. It was a genuine pit of nature. It aroused the audience the concluding act to such unonted enthusiasm, that the young ayer was bound, after her last legiti ate exit, to reappear on the scene in rder to bow her acknowledgments. his demand, so inartistic and so such to be deplored, was forgiven for nce by the more critical people beuse it was felt that the comiment echoed the feelings of every he in front of the curtain. The oung actress who created this most vorable impression has not been any years before the public. A na-on the stage was made, when she was schild, in a production of "Cinderella" at Indianapolis. The Illustrated American says that her pretty and natural appearance in the title role attracted so much attention that the girl of 11 years of age was forthwith engaged to impersonate the same character in a production in Chicago. Various offers for her services followed, with the result that during 1887 she toured the west with a repertoire company. During the following season, she played the title role in "Little Nugget." In the season of 1889-90, she won much popular favor by her pleasing acting and singing as Little Dolly in Mr. Willard Spenser's "Little Tycoon" company. She was next engaged to create the part of Helen French in "Bill" Nye's comedy, "The Cadi," after which she acted Sue Eudaly in "Blue Jeans." In the representation of that weird and wonderful drama, "The Corneracker," at the Fourteenth Street theater, New York, last autumn, she made a hit by her clever acting as the soubrette. She then joined Miss Katherine Clemmons, company, with the result already noted. Her next appearance was made at Philadelphia at Easter, in another comic opera produced by Mr. Willard Spenser. For the season to follow, Miss Goldthwaite, who has a rich and well-cultivated mezzo-soprano voice, is engaged to appear with Mr. De Wolf Hopper's comic opera organization. Her return to that light and fascinating kind of work is to be regretted, for young actresses who are possessed of dramatic ability are few and far between. Miss Goldthwaite will, no doubt, profit by her newly-acquired experience, but it is to be hoped that she will afterward turn her attention to more serious work. She has already shown that she is quite capable of it.

EDITH EVELYN.

A Talented Actress Who Has Won Suc cess at Nineteen.

When talent is discovered, it is well to recognize it. And, unless we are much mistaken, this actress, although merely a novice, does possess much talent which will one day bring her to the front in comedy, for which she has a special aptitude, says the Illustrated American. Miss Evelyn, who is but 19 years of age, was born in Boston, her father being an architect in Kelly appears to regard the situation that city. She studied for the stage tracted the favorable attention of several well-known managers. cently, in the play written by Mr. Sydney Rosenfeld, she made a hit by her bright acting with Mr. J. K. Emmet, with whom she played Kota in "Fritz in Posperity." Her ability, which is already strongly marked, to successfully undertake soubrette parts, has already won her the recognition of more than one manager of looks and a sweet voice in her favor, shows much promise of ultimately making a name for herself as an

A Floral Mystery.

The Chinese, Japanese and Siamese are peculiarly skillful at botanical feats. One of their wonderful achievements is known as the "changeable rose." This bloom is white in the shade and red in the sunlight. After night or in a dark room the curiosity of the rose family is a pure, waxy white blossom. When transferred to the open air the transformation immediately steps in, the time of the entire change of the flower from white to the most sanguine of sanguine hues depending on the degree of sunlight and warmth. First the petals take on a kind of washed or faded blue color, and rapidly change to a faint blush of pink. The pink gradually deepens in hue until you find that your lily-white rose of an hour before is as red as the reddest peony that ever bloomed.

Women in Public Offices.

In Sweden more women than men are found in the telegraph offices, and single women are admitted to all departments of the postoffice service, except that of letter carriers. Women have the same salaries and equal positions in the telegraph and postoffices in Norway and Denmark as men, and in Denmark may become "stationmasters" on the railway, while they also figure as shorthand writers in the openly announced his professionalism. public offices, on the most liberal while an "amateur" have presented terms that have been made, in Finland him with a check for $1,000. and Iceland.

MRS. MARY ELLEN LEASE.

Best known as the ablest orator of the Populist party organization in Kansas. Recently Governor Lewelling, of Kansas, discharged her from the State Board of Charity, of which she was a member; but was compelled by the courts to reinstate her. A few weeks ago it was reported that Mrs. Lease claimed to be a Mason and that she would organize female lodges of that order. The report was denied by Mrs. Lease.

MOIRE IS KING THIS YEAR.

It Appears In All Colors and Is Used For About Everything.

There is no question as to the supremacy of moire this year. Its popularity five years ago was as nothing to its present vogue. It appears in all colors and is utilized for trimming, for entire gowns, for ties, capes, hats-in fact, for everything. It is combined with plain silk, satin and woolen landed in 1892. It is known, however, materials and is particularly favored, especially in the striped weaves for separate waists. These are hardly as cool as the glace and china silk bodices of last year, but they have a great deal of "go" and are well approved. It has been said that pongee makes the coolest lining for summer gowns, but it is doubtful if it is any better comes in fast black, white and mode colors. This is warranted to wash as well as muslin, and its chief drawback is that it sometimes cuts at the seams. In other respects it wears well and is in itself a pretty stuff, having a faintly watered effect.

Black and white, which were so universally adopted last fall, have not yet disappeared as a fashionable combination. It is becoming to many persons and therefore dies hard. Despite the fact that silk is so fashionable this year and is seen in such variety of style and price, fine wools hold a respected place among the materials used for rich toilets. There are beautiful silk and wool goods shown in striped and figured effects and all wool stuffs in crepons, fine serges note. Miss Evelyn, who has good and vignones. Since the advent of flaring skirts very soft materials, such as cashmere and henrietta, have retired into the background save for mourning purposes.

An effective street costume is shown in finely woven black serge trimmed with ivory moire. The skirt is plain, but very wide and full at the back. The front of the bodice is of moire, forming a vest over which are arranged close Eton fronts of serge with wide moire revers. The back of the bodice is plain, and there is a full short basque of serge, lined with moire. The moire standing collar is surrounded by an erect flaring collar of serge, lined with moire, high in the back. An examination of steamship statistics for 1893 shows that the Chicago Fair failed to attract to the United States any extraordinary number of foreign tourists. As a matter of fact, the number of cabin passengers landing at the port of New York last year was only 838 greater than the number who that there was a falling off in the number of American tourists to Europe, and as fewer Americans went abroad, fewer returned, and the fact that there was an actual increase in the number of cabin passengers arriving from foreign ports is evidence that a larger number of foreigners landed than in former years. But this number was nothing like as much as was expected. The number of immigrants arriving in the United States in 1893 was 35,601 less than in 1892. There was more Italian immigration than any other nationality. The Italians numbered 69,074, the Germans

There is a small tribe of Indians in southern Arizona who are idolators. They are in reality sun worshipers, but make small images out of clay with faces supposed to represent the sun, although bearing little if any resemblance to it. They do not associate with other tribes and are very rarely seen by white men. The idols have than the silk and linen material which large, round bodies and heads, with eyes and mouth and ears, beams radiating from the eyes over the face. The Indians have these in their rude houses or wigwams and at certain seasons they hold a sun dance, which is with them a religious ceremony, They have no other form of worship, although a few of them were at one time induced to abandon their idols by the works of the Jesuits.

In the Adirondacks.

One of the most striking phenomena of the Adirondaek region is the in still weather upon the lakes great and small. Persons ashore easily hear the ordinary conversation of others who are so far out upon the lake as to be undistinguishable, and as a great many Adirondack visitors habitually violate the law touching the slaughter of deer, all such offenders are extremely careful not even to whisper a word that might betray their guilt when rowing upon the lakes.
